

Longhorn Lasso

Lasso Reporters
 Stacy Costa
 Seth Bebout
 Katie Taylor
 Serena Smith
 Stefanie Rigoni
 Loretta Laumbach
 Jocelyn Featherston

Senior Edition, 2002

Roy Municipal Schools

CONGRATULATIONS TO THE CLASS OF 2002!

On Saturday, May 25th, at 7:00 p.m., the eleven graduating seniors of the Class of 2002 will march to Pomp and Circumstance, receive their diplomas, and go on to the next chapter of their lives. It's such a special time for them and their families, as well as their teachers and friends, and they're sure to be missed after they're gone.

But before they go off and become the athletic trainer, therapist, lawyer, nurse, accountant, cattle baron, computer specialist, army general, or U.S. President, we thought we would pretend to prophecy their future. Please know that this is all in fun, and we honestly don't mean to hurt anyone's feelings — not the seniors nor their families.

Be sure to reserve your copy of the Longhorn 2002 $20.00 a copy

U R N I T

Inside this issue:

Lauree Ben	2
Zac Craig	3
Niko Hope	4
Elisa Dusty	5
Clay Jessica	6
Melissa Great Start	7
Tobacco Free	8

We wish the Class of 2002 the very best in luck and fortune. Follow your heart and your dreams, and have a great life!

---

Lauree Marcella Anne Atencio

Lauree attended the College of Santa Fe where she studied to become an obstetrician. While walking through the mall one day, she stumbled upon a star search where the director instantly discovered that she would be perfect for the part. She was the perfect height and build to become a child model. Even at 32 she looked young enough and was small enough that she played the "little sister" parts in several films. However, after several years her true age had begun to show and she had to search for a new occupation.

Having never cut her floor length hair since high school, she decided that she would finally cut it and donate it to Wigs for Cancer Patients. She decided to help make wig. Finding this very satisfying, she decided to do this for her occupation and started "Wigs R Us". So if you would like to contact Lauree, she is working in Chicago weaving the most beautiful wigs you could ever imagine.

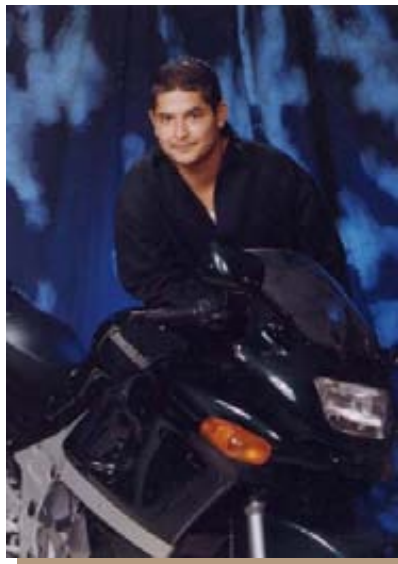

---

Have fun in Florida!

---

Benjamin Bonafacio Covarrubias

After high school, Ben went on to start stint as a culinary specialist in the army. Soon after food poisoning the entire platoon, the army thought it was safer for him to pursue another career, as a civilian. After being kicked out of beauty school, he enrolled in a state police K9 unit. After being attacked several times he decided it was too intense and decided to move onto the world of dog shows. Ben became the best poodle trainer in the world, putting on clinics nationwide. Ben and his prize poodle, Fritzzy, climbed to the top winning the Westminster Dog Show. He was set for life, at the young age of twenty, with a lifetime supply of poodle food. He married an 80-year-old trillionaire, who coincidentally died seven months after the marriage. Ben, heartbroken and alone (except for Fritzzy) was left as just the single richest person in the universe. One month later, he married a supermodel who bore him many children, and they lived happily ever after.

Zacrias James Ebell

After graduation Zac went to New Mexico Highlands University. Within a semester he flunked out because no body would do his work for him. He moved back to Roy to work on his family ranch. Zac lived and worked with his parents until he was 21 years old and his mom told him he needed to leave.

Desperate to find a job that would pay him well and he would enjoy, Zac found there was only one clear choice: Hair Dresser. Zac found a very prestigious hair dressing school in Detroit, Michigan. After three strenuous semesters at the Hair Dressing Academy, Zac graduated with the highest honors. Within a few short months, top fashion designers from all over the world were trying to get Zac to come do their models' hair before they went on the runway. This appealed to Zac because he always loved women. Zac hopped the next flight to Paris and traveled all over Europe to the fashion shows. Since he was the highest paid hairdresser in the world, Zac could afford to buy anything he wanted.

After ten years of living the high life, Zac felt there was something missing. He was traveling through Great Britain in his Ferrari when he came across a beautiful peasant girl watching her flock of goats. They fell instantly in love. Since Zac was already a multimillionaire, they moved back to Roy and raised many children and lots more goats.

Craig William Esquibel

May, 2002, rolled around and it was Senior trip time. All the seniors had a good time in Florida; such a good time that when their week was over, they couldn't find Craig. Nobody really knows what happened to Craig, but this is the current rumor at the Drug Store:

Rumor has it Craig stayed in Florida for a while until he decided that he needed money — and fast. So he went to a gun store and bought a Glock 17. He didn't know why; he just did. Well, that night he was cruising in the rental when he turned down the wrong alley and interrupted a Cuban Drug Drop. Craig pulled heat and walked away with 27 million dollars — no, he didn't take the cocaine; the Cubans paid him off for not turning them in.

Craig was "in the money". He thought, "Why not go and see Meghann?" (his old flame). Craig and Meghann flew all over the place until they finally used up all his Frequent Flyer miles. Then he bought his own retired military jet and every once in a while he'll buzz over Roy. If anyone wants to see him, they say he lives in the Bermuda Triangle.

Secundino (Niko) Esquibel III

After graduating from Roy High School, Niko went on to college at the University of New Mexico. He was going to major in criminal law, but since Jessica Shaw had gone to New Mexico State instead of going with Niko to UNM he started flunking out and partying a lot. So after about two weeks of partying he finally decided that since Jessica wasn't there to do all of his work and remember his Social Security Number for some important paper work he thought that he would leave. He stayed and partied for the rest of the semester, but he got so far behind in class that he got kicked out of school. The next semester came and he transferred to NMSU so that he could have Jessica there to help him pass all of his tests and even the bar exam. With Jessica's help, he finally got out of school. It took him twelve years. He paid Jessica to stay in school with him an extra 8 years.

Now Niko is a highly paid and respected lawyer in California. Jessica, Niko, and I are the only ones who know that he never did any of it on his own. Jessica works for him and makes sure all his cases are run orderly. She also does his taxes and makes sure he doesn't forget to turn something in on time. Since I've never told Niko's secret until now, he'll probably stop fighting my court case's for free. He is married to his old high school sweetheart Stacey Hazen, and they have about twelve kids. Rumor has it that he's coming back to Harding County to run for Magistrate

Hope Alicen Hephner

After graduation Hope took classes at New Mexico Highlands University and then went to Eastern in the spring. Everything was going according to plan until one night Hope decided to visit a local prison. She found that she really bonded with some of the convicts on death row. They said right before they died that she gave them hope - get it? - for eternity.

She searched deep inside of her and she realized she would love to continue that work for a while. Since the Catholic Church was so short on missionaries, they agreed to send Hope to South Africa right away. When she experienced the poverty and lack of religion in other countries, she realized that they needed her. She set up schools and churches and single-handedly converted all of South Africa to Christianity. That gave Hope such a sense of pride that she chose to continue this further, regardless of the lack of money. Hope has schools and churches across the world, including Afghanistan, India, and China. She has been awarded the Nobel Peace Prize as well as many other awards, and is now considered the "Mother of Hope" to all the children she's helped.

---

Elisa Jessica Laumbach

After High School Graduation, Elisa

(Punky) got to stay out till after dark to attend the graduation party, She was overwhelmed. She just couldn't believe that God's creatures could act so wild and crazy. Punky went to church the next morning and asked God for help, or to give her some sort of sign about what to do with her life — and He did! She heard Him tell her she should become a nun and serve the church for the rest of her life. She thought about it for a few minutes and decided that wasn't such a bad idea. She finished praying and turned around to find her dad, Pedro. She realized it was Pedro telling her to become a nun, not God after all; so Elisa threw that idea out the window.

A few months after that, Elisa decided she would try college for awhile. Ten years later, she graduated from college and became a telemarketer for Avon.

She lives in New Hampshire in a rundown apartment complex. Elisa also has three cats and a Chihuahua named Shibaba. The cats seem to be doing fine despite the many times they just happened to be put in the microwave. . .

I just talked to Elisa the other day and she says she loves

---

We wish you all the best!

---

Dustin Roe Mayer

After Graduation Dusty set off to Texas to attend college. He started riding bulls to pay his tuition. He started getting in the big money and working his way up to PBR status. Dusty didn't waste time, right after graduation he joined the P.B.R national tour. His third year in the pros he won the P. B.R world cup at the Thomas & Mack Center in Las Vegas, Nevada. The following year, during 8 Second Thunder in Phoenix, he was stepped on by Dillenger the toughest bull in the world. He wasn't hurt because of the vest he wore. Dusty decided that he came too close to biting the big one, so he retired. He then moved back to Roy and took over his dad's ranch. He bought a million more acres to add on to the ranch, and settled down with his new wife who was a 21 year-old penthouse pet.

Well folks that's the legend of Dusty Mayer.

---

Clayton Emmett Moore

---

Following family tradition, Clay attended Texas A&M after graduation. He studied chiropractic for three semesters. Clay had an epiphany and decided to follow his childhood dream of becoming a world-class circus performer. He went to the Julian school of performing Art in New York City. Taking in the culture of downtown Manhattan he got a part time job as a mime. While doing this, he studied juggling on a unicycle.

recognized by the professional world and was invited to appear at the Oscars. Clay was not accustomed to such stage fright. During his show, he cycled off the stage and broke his leg, wrist, and a couple of ribs which resulted in a memory loss. Clay was last seen wandering the streets of Hollywood in a mime outfit. If you have any information on Clay Moore, please call 1-800-MISSING MIMES.

After completing his strenuous college education, Clay finally became

We're proud of you!

---

Jessica Flolene Shaw

---

After graduating from Roy High, Jessica attended New Mexico State University. When she got there she realized that college was definitely not her thing! Her destiny in life was to be a deodorant tester!!! After being Mary Katherine Gallagher for freshmen initiation she knew that being a deodorant tester was the perfect job for her. In case some of you forgot, during freshmen initiation she had to go around smelling her arm pits all day! Everyone thought that it was awful and disgusting, but I guess that she didn't.

So, Jessica pursued her lifelong dream of testing deodorant. Who would have ever thought that the valedictorian of the class of 2002 would end up like this. Jessica seemed just like any other normal teenager when she graduated from High School, but once she started attending college the memory of that freshman initiation day came back to her and she realized what she was meant to do in life.

Even though people don't think of deodorant testing as the most popular job, Jessica became rich because of her hidden ability. Commercials were also aired worldwide on the network channels of Jessica with her most adored deodorants. She was recognized for her outstanding acting ability, and was sought by many well-known directors for her to play leading roles in some of the most famous movies. She is now known as the deodorant girl that became famous and later was competing with some of the most well-known actresses for the most won Oscars!!!

---

Melissa Sue Shaw

---

Shortly after graduation Melissa went to New Mexico State University. She had planned to be an accountant until she joined the local news station as a talk show host. After 18 months of this life she hit it big and found a studio in Los Angeles for her daily show, According to Missy. Melissa met all the big stars until one day, while talking to Jenny Jones, she made a horrible comment about Ted Turner. She was hit immediately with a multimillion-dollar lawsuit. This put Missy out of talk show-show business forever.

Melissa wandered from town to town looking for the best job she could get without a college education and with a bad reputation. Finally she found a job as a janitor at a very popular museum. After countless hours of this atmosphere, Melissa concluded she would try to make a living as a painter. A nice boss of hers told her to try. Melissa started the only way she knew how. She now works on an exit ramp selling her paintings for 75 cents apiece.

Senior Edition, 2002

Roy Municipal Schools

Roy Municipal Schools
P.O. Drawer 430
Roy, New Mexico 87743
Phone: 505.485.2242
Fax: 505.485.2497

Believe It
To Achieve It

Senior Edition